CDE Spotlight - Agricultural Sales

Within FFA, members can compete in various different contests. One of the next contest FFA members can participate in is Agricultural Sales. This contest is where students study and learn about a specific agricultural product. The students will take a general knowledge test over the agricultural sales process.

At the in person contest, students will be given a scenario based on a need of a potential customer and will have to sell their product to the individual and group of judges. Following the individual sales pitch, the team will complete a team activity where they will have to have a verbal test on the process of sales.
